What is this adventure?

Peru inspires wonder at every turn. From high mountains to lush valleys, traditional Quechuan villages and mystical Inca ruins, this beautiful country beams with cultural pride.

On this amazing adventure, you'll trek the spectacular Inca Trail to Machu Picchu—considered one of the greatest treks in the world. With time to acclimatise in Cusco, you will follow a well-defined path under the care of experienced guides. Over four days you'll traverse high passes and explore mist-shrouded ruins. You'll descend into verdant valleys in the shadow of dramatic mountain ranges and camp under the stars.

Concluding at Machu Picchu, you'll experience the majesty and mysticism of this awe-inspiring ancient city. Spend a day at the 'lost city of the Incas' and bask in its enigmatic grandeur. As part of this adventure you'll also explore other famous Inca ruins, including Tambo Machay, Qenqo, Sacsayhuaman and Ollantaytambo and spend a day at the Chicuchas Wasi Alternative School for Girls that provides free education for local girls from Indigenous families.

What will my impact be?

According to the World Health Organisation, 11 per cent of the global burden of disease can be treated by surgery.

By joining Turia's Inca Trail Challenge you will help Interplast repair bodies and rebuild lives throughout the Asia Pacific region.

For decades, Interplast has worked on the ground in some of the world's poorest countries to provide free surgical treatment and facilitate safe, healthier and more sustainable healthcare initiatives. With your support, our teams of volunteer plastic and reconstructive surgeons, anaesthetists, nurses and allied health professionals can continue to provide free surgical treatment to patients living with treatable disabilities such as cleft lip and palate, burn scars and severe hand injuries.

The funds you raise as part of this incredible adventure will also enable us to train the next generation of surgical leaders in the countries in which we work. Through education, training and mentoring programs we empower local medical personnel to perform life-saving procedures independently.

With your support, we can do more.

We constantly receive requests for assistance from all over the world and have more volunteers offering their services than we can send on funded programs.

We are only limited by funding. Will you help us continue to repair bodies and rebuild lives?

Join people like Turia

My name is Turia Pitt and in September 2011, I was badly burned during the Kimberley Ultramarathon. Sixty-five per cent of my body was burned, several of my fingers were amputated and I was left with a badly scarred face.

It has been a long, cruel journey to get to where I am now, but I consider myself lucky. Lucky I didn't lose my hands and feet, my hair or my eyes. I'm also lucky because I live in Australia and could benefit from the excellent standards of medical care that we so often take for granted. I also feel very lucky that I was given a voice, and with that comes a sense of responsibility.

After my recovery, I started asking questions and began to think about people in developing countries. How can they access medical care, physiotherapy, compression garments and all the other factors that led to my own recovery?

I first heard about Interplast from my reconstructive surgeon, who volunteers annually by providing free surgical treatment and training overseas. And I thought, "I'd like to do something to help burn survivors too."

That's why, in July 2015, I will be trekking the Inca Trail to raise vital funds for Interplast. I hope you'll join me! All the money we raise will go towards the work of this incredible organisation, and help people all over the Asia Pacific region to rebuild their lives.

Case study

In 2014, a team of volunteer surgeons, anaesthetists and nurses travelled to Vientiane, Laos with Interplast. Among the 65 patients they operated on during this two-week program was Chezong.

At 28, Chezong suffered burns to the backs of his legs, an injury that resulted in extreme contractures of his burn scars. So severe were the contractures, Chezong's calves and thighs were touching. He was no longer able to walk, instead shuffling on his hands while dragging his legs.

As a result of the burns, Chezong was unable to work or provide for his family. At such a young age, he was now facing a future of poverty and social isolation.

With the support of people just like you, Interplast turned Chezong's life around.

The volunteer team performed complicated surgery to release the burn scar contractures and repair the damage to Chezong's legs. The surgery was a success and, as a result, Chezong was able to straighten his legs for the first time in three years. With post-operative therapy, Chezong is now able to walk again. His future is once again filled with opportunity.

Chezong is just one of thousands of patients whose lives have been changed by Interplast. Turia Pitt, Interplast ambassador and burns survivor, was present from Chezong's consultation to his surgery and recovery. "It was both challenging and confronting to see kids and adults alike with such horrific injuries—particularly since such injuries are easily treatable in Australia. I believe in Interplast even more now that I have seen the tangible impact this organisation has on lives."

B = Breakfast, L = Lunch, D = Dinner

Day 1, Saturday 18 July 2015 Australia to Peru

The adventure-of-a-lifetime begins! As we cross the International Date Line, we arrive in Peru the same day we departed Australia. On arrival at Lima's Jorge Chávez International Airport, we are transferred to our hotel. Tonight, you may want to sample ceviche, a delicious traditional Peruvian seafood dish.

Meals: D

Day 2, Sunday 19 July 2015 Lima to Cusco

This morning, we return to the airport and take an early morning flight over the Andes to Cusco (3,399m). Here, we are greeted by our local guide and transferred to our hotel. Today is free to explore this town and acclimatise to the altitude of the Andes. To aid acclimatisation, it's important that you drink plenty of water and combine short walks with plenty of rest. After lunch in a local restaurant, we will take a short walking tour of central Cusco.

Meals: B, L, D

Day 3, Monday 20 July 2015 Cusco and Pisac

Today we will explore Cusco and the Sacred Valley to learn more about the Inca heritage of Peru. As today's discovery tour takes us to 3,650 metres, it is also the perfect opportunity to further acclimatise to the high altitude. To begin, we transfer to the picturesque village of Pisac, famous for its markets and artisan stalls. Here, you may like to shop at the many stalls and stands, or visit the extensive Inca ruins surrounding the village along a well-defined track through royal buildings, lookouts, terraces and tunnels. We will enjoy a picnic lunch together, before returning to Cusco, exploring outlying Inca sites, including Tambo Machay, Qenqo and the ruins of Sacsayhuaman, en route.

Meals: B, L

Day 4, Tuesday 21 July 2015 Chicuchas Wasi School visit

Today we visit the Chicuchas Wasi Alternative School for Girls* that provides free education for local girls from Indigenous families. Just a short drive from Cusco, at the school we will spend the day talking with students and participating in lessons. Chicuchas Wasi has worked for 25 years to educate families, and the Andean community, on the value of their young girls and the many ways they can contribute to economic stability. After lunch at the school, we return to Cusco to prepare for our first day of trekking.

Meals: B, L, D

* All visitors to the School must complete a National Police Check (at a cost of $42) and provide the Certificate to Inspired Travel.

Day 5, Wednesday 22 July 2015 Inca Trail: Cusco to Llactapata

This morning we begin our 4-day trek along the Inca Trail to Machu Picchu. We begin with a short transfer to Ollantaytambo and, after ample time to explore this site, transfer to the start of the Inca Trail. Here, we follow the sacred Urubamba River along an undulating, scenic trail. On arrival in Llactapata (2,788m), set atop a ridge between the valleys of the Aobamba and the Salcantay, we explore some spectacular Inca ruins while our support crew set up camp and prepare our delicious dinner.

Trekking distance: 7km

Meals: L, D

Day 6, Thursday 23 July 2015 Inca Trail: Llactapata to Llulluchapampa

After breakfast, we begin trekking through the Cusichaca Valley to the small hamlet of Huallyabamba, the last inhabited place along the trail (3,000m). From here, we make our way through stunning cloud forest, following a mountain stream to our campsite at Llulluchapampa (3,680m). The natural beauty of this area inspires serenity, only interrupted by the delightful glimpse of elusive hummingbirds. Upon arrival, we are treated to spectacular views of the valley and have the evening to rest and relax in preparation for tomorrow's trek—the longest of the adventure.

Trekking distance: 12km

Meals: B, L, D

Day 7, Friday 24 July 2015

Inca Trail: Llulluchapampa to Phuyupatamarca ruins

It's an early start today as we begin the steady climb to the highest point of the trail, the impressive Abra de Warmiwañusca or Dead Woman's Pass (4,200m). Upon reaching the pass, you'll feel on top of the world as you gaze out at the surrounding peaks. From here, we descend into the Pacasmayo Valley, before making our way up to Runkuracay Pass (3,998m). Stopping to catch our breath, we are treated to amazing views of the Vilcabamba Range. We then continue further into the valley, following a well-preserved Inca pathway to the mysterious Sayacmarca ruins. With ample time to explore this incredible site, we then make our way to the Phuyupatamarca ruins (3,650m)—the “place above the clouds”—and set up camp.

Trekking distance: 16km

Meals: B, L, D

Day 8, Saturday 25 July 2015

Inca Trail: Phuyupatamarca ruins to Aguas Calientes

This morning we set off early to witness the sun rise gloriously over the peaks of Salcantay (6,200m) and Veronica (5,800m). It's then time to commence our final day of trekking. We begin by descending an ancient Inca staircase through beautiful cloud forest to Wiñay Wayna (2,600m), an atmospheric orchid-filled ruin. We then trek high above the mighty Urubamba River to Inti Punku, the Gateway of the Sun, where we will have our first glimpse of Machu Picchu. We will return for an in-depth exploration in the morning, but this afternoon we will rest in the nearby town of Aguas Calientes.

About Interplast

Interplast Australia & New Zealand is a not-for-profit organisation that exists to repair bodies and rebuild lives across the Asia Pacific region by providing free reconstructive surgery to disadvantaged patients. For over 30 years, we have worked in 25 countries to implement over 600 surgical and allied health medical program activities.

We strive to improve the quality of life of people disabled as a result of congenital or acquired medical conditions, ensuring they have timely access to high quality surgical, medical and allied health services. We send fully qualified Australian and New Zealand volunteer plastic and reconstructive surgeons, anaesthetists, nurses and allied health professionals to the Asia Pacific region to offer free reconstructive surgery for patients who would otherwise not be able to afford or access such services.

We are also committed to developing the health systems of the countries in which we work. For us, empowering local medical personnel through education, and in building their capacity to act independently, we are creating sustainable health systems for the future.

Since 1983, with the support of people just like you, we have:

- Supported over 70 surgeons and nurses to complete part of their training in Australia
- Sent 600 volunteers on medical programs
- Provided over 37,000 consultations
- Performed over 21,000 life-changing operations

Put simply, our purpose is to provide free life-changing surgery today and build sustainable health systems for the future.

"We are very proud to be able to assist in providing what is often basic surgery in Australia across the Asia Pacific region. We are committed to ensuring this continues for generations to come by equipping and empowering local medical staff to provide these services independently, as a result of our training programs. To be able to facilitate this level of support and assistance to our Asia Pacific neighbours for 30 years is wonderful. And it's all thanks to our incredible volunteers and supporters!"

– Prue Ingram, CEO, Interplast
